Dear Marvin:

I am venturing this note just to tell you how deeply I appreciate the friendly personal cooperation which you have extended all along in our present troubles. About all I can do at the moment is to say "thank you".

Sincerely,

Marvin MacIntyre, Esq.,
The White House,
Washington, D.C.

P.S.- Is there any way of ascertaining what the Japanese actually are doing -- especially as regards a real search of the eastern fringe of the Marshall Islands? That is one of the most fruitful possible locations for wreckage.
