A combination of vigilance, persistence, and good luck has resulted in TIGHAR’s discovery of the largest single collection primary source documents relating to the Earhart disappearance ever made. The Associated Press wire service reporter aboard the Coast Guard cutter Itasca during the Earhart cruise was James W. Carey, and the news stories he filed are a well-known part of the historical record. What has not been known by Earhart researchers, until now, is that Jim Carey kept a detailed personal journal and took numerous photographs during Itasca’s 37-day odyssey. Two days after his return to Honolulu, he wrote a ten-page article describing his experiences.

Jim Carey was a meticulous record keeper and he carefully saved his collection of materials from his great adventure as a 23 year-old reporter aboard Itasca. Now, after seventy years, Carey’s original hand-written notebooks, a transcript of the notebooks that he typed before his death in 1988, his photographs, his ten-page article, an extensive file of original Itasca message forms with his wire service reports and messages, and a large collection of original newspaper clippings relating to the Earhart search have come to light. The Carey Collection fleshes out the human aspects of what happened aboard Itasca and provides important new information. The amazing story of how this treasure trove of historical information surfaced will be told in a major Associated Press article to be released soon (maybe even before you receive this). The upcoming special issue of TIGHAR Tracks will feature an analysis of the new information and how it enhances our understanding of the Earhart disappearance. As soon as the AP story is released we’ll have the Carey journal, photos, and article up on the TIGHAR website.

Finding Amelia Sales

TIGHAR’s history of the known facts in the Earhart case, Finding Amelia – the True Story of the Earhart Disappearance was officially released by the Naval Institute Press on September 19, 2006. The book was the top seller in the publisher’s Fall 2006 line up and is now in its second printing, having sold well over 5,000 copies. Sales in 2007 continue to be brisk and we’re hoping that the publicity from the AP story will further boost sales. The royalties are still whittling away at the advance provided by the publisher so there’s not yet a positive financial return for TIGHAR, but the attention and recognition the book is bringing to the organization is a big plus.
